PARENTS ON CAMPUS

On Sunday, October 8, 1978, Manor Students escorted their parents to the annual Parents-Faculty Tea.

Sr. Miriam Claire, OSBM, delivered the "Presidential Welcome" to the students and their parents, and introduced the college administrators. Sr. Dia, OSBM, Dean of Students, presented Academic Programs and Objectives of Manor, and introduced the members of the faculty.

Jack Shields, in his presentation "Manor & You", explained how the Development Office has the responsibility for Public Relations and Fund Raising, and how the parents of Manor students can assist Development and become an important part of Manor.

Mr. Shields, by way of a chart of Manor's "Organizational Set", showed how the parents may belong to several of Manor's audiences, e.g., working for a company which has an aid-to-education fund or a matching gift program; contacts with officers of Private Foundations; or even displaying the Manor College window sticker on their auto; or informing the college about an aid program that their company or organization has for higher education. Since tuition covers only about 60% of the annual budget, Mr. Shields emphasized that all these other funding sources are needed to balance the budget and keep tuition low.

After orientation and a tour of the campus, the parents, students, faculty and staff were treated to a tea and buffet, and given a chance to meet and chat informally.

As a result of their interest, the parents will be invited by Manor to form a "Parents Organization". Interested parents can call J. Shields at 855-2360 for details.

Sr. M. Claire, President, addresses the Faculty, Administration, and Staff Members on September 13, 1978, in the Basileiad Library.

PARENTS-FACULTY TEA - was held on Sunday, October 8, 1978. The orientation and introductions were held in the Seminar Room of the Basileiad Library. Refreshments followed.

SHOULD A WOMAN HAVE A WILL?

by John Shields

Some women don't consider wills important for them because they aren't married and don't have children, or because they are married and their husbands have wills, or because they don't realize that even a small estate needs the protection of a will. The fact is, whether she's married or single, every woman needs a will for the same reasons that a man does.

A married woman needs a will to see that her family's particular needs are met. If she has children, she will want to name a guardian for them in case both she and her husband die before the children are grown.

If she has no will, the court will have to distribute her estate according to the laws of her state which may not consider the needs of individual family members, or her estate may be tied up for months or years in litigation in the courts.

An unmarried woman has a special need for a will because there are likely to be more questions as to who her intended heirs are. Unless she has a will, the court will automatically distribute her property to her nearest relatives as outlined by law.

Her will lets her give personal possessions such as jewelry, furniture, collections, etc. to special relatives and friends or to Manor College. Without a will these possesions would likely be sold and the proceeds divided among nearest of kin.

In this case, however, women do have a resource. They can write their wills and distribute their property in the way they choose. It is a right of every woman, but, unfortunately, most ignore it or put it off until it's too late. Consult your lawyer or financial advisor as soon as possible.

For further information on this or other ways to include Manor Junior College in your estate plans, contact Jack Shields, Director of Development, Manor Junior College, Jenkintown, PA 19046.

APPEAL OF ADMISSIONS OFFICE TO MANOR'S ALUMNAE

An evaluation of the enrollment of Freshmen for the past two years shows a 40% and 20% increase, respectively. This year's Freshman enrollment shows a decrease of 10%.

The goal of the Admissions Office for the coming year is, to reach a much larger number of prospective students, through a personal service, with the aid of the Alumnae of Manor.

An analysis of the Freshman Survey, on the reasons for selecting Manor as their choice, shows that alumnae recommendation has been cited quite frequently.

Since alumnae have expressed an interest in assisting Manor in concrete ways, the Admissions Office is initiating an Alumnae Admissions Program. The main objective of this program is, to further extend Manor's personal touch to high school counselors and students, with the help of the alumnae.

The Admissions Office appeals to all alumnae, interested in visiting high schools, attending area college nights, contacting high school seniors, or sending to the Admissions Office the names of prospective students, to please contact Sr. Anthony Ann, Dean of Admissions, at Manor.
